THE GOAL OF AL-QADISA

Education and spirituality—these are the fundamental principles necessary to improve the world and establish peace. If society improves through education, then peace in the world will prevail through spirituality. Any community that prioritizes education paves the way for its own advancement.

There are approximately 80 lakh Muslims in Karnataka, part of a population of 65 crores. Although Islam places great importance on education, Indian Muslims have fallen behind in terms of education for various reasons. Efforts are underway to help bring them forward academically. In line with this, numerous educational institutions have been established in Karnataka. Every community is working toward improving society by creating their own educational institutions, and Al Qadisa is contributing to this effort to enhance academic society.

As modern education progresses, we are witnessing the rise of societal evils. Educational institutions, which should guide society toward improvement, have unfortunately become a vehicle for the spread of these evils. The fact remains that, with the opening of paths to progress due to economic reforms, educational awareness, and globalization, societal evils have also expanded. Friendships among people are becoming rarer, while hatred, enmity, immorality, and corruption are on the rise. Man has lost his way.

There is an urgent need to create an atmosphere of peace, love, and coexistence among human beings. This requires both God-fearing attitudes and spirituality. Without spirituality, life loses its meaning. Therefore, Al Qadisa is committed to integrating spirituality into society through education.

To build a society that is both God-fearing and well-educated, Al Qadisa has initiated many projects aimed at reaching out to people from all walks of life.

FOUNDER OF AL-QADISA INSTITUTE

The founder of Al-Qadisa Institute, Dr. Muhammad Fazil Razvi Hazrath, hails from Channarayapatna in the Hassan district. He completed his schooling in his village and obtained his Fazil degree from Darul Uloom Shahe Jamaat Sharia College, Hassan, in 1993.

After earning his Fazil degree, Hazrath began serving as a Khateeb at the Hanafi Juma Masjid in Kavalakatte. During this period, he mastered the Tibbunnabavi method of treatment and also practiced Manevaidaya and Unani medicine. Additionally, he gained expertise in spiritual healing methods through Quranic verses, Zikr, and Asmaas.

After a decade of service at Kavalakatte Masjid, Hazrath began guiding people who sought solutions to various issues, including illnesses. As the number of people seeking remedies for their problems increased, it became difficult to accommodate them within the mosque's services. To address this, he established a separate system nearby, providing guidance and shelter to thousands from different parts of the state.

True service is not limited to resolving physical, mental, familial, or business-related issues; it is only complete when a community is granted meaningful access to spirituality and education. Hazrath recognized that education and spirituality must go hand in hand to free society from harmful influences. He believed that only by preparing enlightened individuals could the community ensure a brighter future for the next generation.

In 2015, Hazrath established Al-Qadisa Educational Academy, an institution dedicated to educational excellence. With the vision of acquiring 25 acres of land for the institution, he approached donors who were deeply concerned about the community's progress. Their overwhelming support enabled Al-Qadisa to swiftly secure the necessary land, ensuring a strong foundation for the institution's mission.

AL QADISA COLLEGE OF ISLAMIC DA'AWA

This institution provides both secular and religious education to talented students who have passed SSLC, offering a seven-year program. Students have the opportunity to earn a religiously-oriented degree along with graduation-level education, spanning from PU to PG. The campus facilitates the practical learning of the Urdu language, alongside Hanafi students, making it easily accessible. In addition to Modern Arabic, various extra-curricular activities are offered for personality development.

The college also hosts special majlis sessions on spirituality, along with separate classes on Islamic history and astronomy. Al Qadisa provides diverse training to nurture students' talents, making them valuable contributors to society. Currently, Shafi'i and Hanafi students from 14 districts of Karnataka are studying here, with free food, accommodation, and education provided.

AL QADISA PU COLLEGE

Al Qadisa PU College (Boys' Section) was established in 2024-25 after receiving recognition from the Government of Karnataka. The Girls' Section is set to commence in 2025-26 to meet the educational needs of the local community, incorporating Sharia-based classes. Al Qadisa PU College is committed to creating a conducive learning environment while safeguarding students from the negative influences prevalent in many college campuses today. The institution remains dedicated to imparting knowledge and spirituality in line with its educational mission.

AL QADISA PRE-DA'WAH SCHOOL

Pre-Da'wah School is an institution with a hostel that provides students with both religious and academic education while shielding them from the negative influences of conventional school environments. The school admits students in grades 7, 8, and 9 and commenced operations in the academic year 2024-25.

Institutions like Pre-Da'wah School play a crucial role in guiding children away from distractions, such as excessive exposure to visual media, and toward a structured and disciplined student life. Despite the growing demand for enrollment, Pre-Da'wah School, along with Pre-Da'wa School and Hiful Quran College, currently lacks properly constructed buildings, limiting the number of students who can be accommodated each year.

AL QADISA ENGLISH MEDIUM SCHOOL

Currently, there is no shortage of schools in the Dakshina Kannada district. New and innovative colleges are emerging across the region. However, the demand for educational campuses that are free from environmental hazards, conducive to learning, and focused on delivering high-quality education is steadily increasing.

To address this societal need and with the aim of offering quality education to children, Al Qadisa English Medium School was established in 2015 with a spirit of service.

Housed in an attractive building with spacious, modern facilities, children receive structured Madrasa education alongside their academic curriculum.

AL QADISA ZAHATHUL QURAN PRE-SCHOOL

In today's digital age, children are exposed to technology from infancy. The lifestyles of people of all ages, from young children to the elderly, have evolved significantly. Learning and teaching methods continue to change every year, and innovative techniques are now available to enhance young minds with valuable knowledge.

Why are young children, who grasp concepts quickly, also able to learn Arabic letters and Quranic recitation at an early age? Zahratul Quran Nursery School was founded with this vision. Children above the age of three receive early education through three years of structured training. This includes kindergarten-level learning, Quranic recitation, and memorization, helping them develop fluency and proficiency in reciting the Quran.

Curriculum Features:

- Engaging and child-friendly teaching methods
- Quran recitation and memorization training
- Dedicated lessons on Arabic letters
- Teaching moral values

FUTURE PLAN

In addition, Al Qadisa is planning more impactful projects aimed at uplifting the community, and is striving for excellence in both education and social service. Looking ahead, Al Qadisa aims to launch several community-oriented service projects with compassion and dedication, centered around the Al Qadisa Education Academy, which will span a vast area of 25 acres.

Main service projects

Marhamah Free Housing Project

A project that provides free housing with basic facilities to families living in poverty.
A symbol of humanitarian service.

Girls' Residential School

A special residential school that provides quality education in a safe environment.

The Need for a Girls' Residential School

There are very few college campuses where girls can pursue higher education in an environment that respects their values. Many are denied the opportunity to dress modestly and practice their beliefs freely. Unfortunately, some campuses are becoming centers of distractions that hinder personal and academic growth.

In response, more parents are seeking institutions where girls can receive both religious and secular education in a safe and respectful environment. They want a place that nurtures moral values while ensuring academic excellence and secure hostel facilities.

Vikasashram

Separate training for special children

Vikasashram is a specialized children's home that offers dedicated education and training for children with special needs—particularly those who struggle to socialize with others and face challenges due to developmental delays. This initiative supports both the children and their families by providing a nurturing and structured environment tailored to their unique needs.
